At the November 3, 2011 Public Meeting the Armstrong County Commissioners signed the Adoption Awareness Month Proclamation. Ms. Nancy McLean, an adoption advocate, representative of "His Kids", and an adoptive mother of seventeen children attended the meeting with six of her school aged children. Ms. McLean stated that her group would like to have the proclamation adopted in every county across the nation. The month of November was selected as "Adoption Awareness Month" in hopes that more children awaiting adoption will find families to celebrate the holiday season with. She added that interested families should not be discouraged due to disability, low income, or unmarried status. Ms. McLean announced that on November 9, 2011, several adoptions are scheduled to be finalized in Armstrong County. A banner has been hung across the front of the courthouse for the month of November in honor of Adoption Awareness Month.
